

Eagle Scout Projects
Boca Raton Garden Club
President Patty Moum's Report

At the Boca Raton Garden Club three teenage boys have recently completed Eagle Scout projects and a fourth is near completion.

One boy built a beautiful pergola, surrounded it with Confederate Jasmine and installed a woodchip and flagstone path leading to and from it. The second boy painted the walls of an interior storage room, built floor to ceiling shelves and installed mini blinds. The third young man built a huge potting island, a large structure for hanging plants and he refurbished two old potting tables. Last but not least, the fourth boy is in the process of building two storage sheds. These projects came at no cost to the Boca Raton Garden Club.

Many of your own clubhouses are greatly in need of improvements, but cost has become an issue. Also, committee chairmen are looking for help with special community projects. Although our club was approached by troop scout masters, you can reach out to your local Boy Scout Troops at www.scouting.org to possibly find a solution to your needs.
